A few weeks ago The Mall of Inspiration was launched on our website. With this section I want to introduce a new cool way of advertising. I find advertising on websites not always appropriate and most of the time the ads disturb my pleasure browsing. With The Mall of Inspiration I tried to embed the companies who advertise on the website and make them part of the website by giving them more space to promote themselves. The most important part of The Mall is that I will only allow creative business so you all can benefit from the ads and try to keep the ads of high and creative quality. I'm also going to open the units for creatives who are selling their work through shop sections on their websites. It will give your work world-wide exposure for low prices, you can contact me if you are interested! All money collected from unit rent will go back in the website, because our main goal is to inspire you and make the site and e-magazines better and better and not get rich by advertisements. Another new exciting turn is that this and future e-Magazines will be published as iPad versions. Hope you all enjoy that! Enjoy this 9th issue, next issue will be published on June 2th 2013!
